

Danielle LETAL

Daniella LETAL is a Martinican who is committed to cooperation between the territories of the Caribbean. She has been an advisory member of the OECS YAN since 2020, representing Martinique. Her interests in international relations and cooperation in the Caribbean have led to her being involved in various initiatives. In 2015, she represented Martinique at the 19th Commonwealth Conference of Ministers of Education (19CCEM) as a member of the junior enterprise Antilles Développement: a student association of the Université des Antilles.

In 2017, she obtained her Master's degree in Political Science at Université des Antilles in Guadeloupe, specializing in International Relations and Cooperation in the Caribbean. The following year, she was selected to participate in the Parlement francophone des jeunes des Amériques, a parliamentary simulation organised by the Centre de la francophonie des Amériques at the Parliament of Quebec.

She worked as a project manager for the Cluster Gat Caraïbes, an organisation that aims to optimise maritime transport and the supply chain in the Americas-Caribbean zone. She also participated in organising the Caribbean Supply Chain Event 2019, which brought together key players in the sector. Due to her multifaceted academic and professional background, Daniella strongly believes in the future of her region and wants to contribute to its development.
