Ronny Chieng: International Student

It's a few days before the annual grudge football match between the Law Faculty and the Medical Faculty. After losing for the last three years, the law coach Professor Dale, is desperate to beat his arch-rivals. When Dale stumbles on Ronny, Elvin and Wei Jun playing Chapteh (a traditional Asian game which is a cross between soccer and badminton), he believes he may have found a secret goal kicking weapon. Professor Dale grants Ronny and Elvin amnesty from their group assignment so they can play the football game. However, his tactics are thrown into disarray when Ronny and Elvin are taken hostage by their group, until they finish their assignment. Now Ronny and Elvin must somehow escape the group, in time to help kick the team to victory.

Written by and starring comedian Ronny Chieng, a regular on The Daily Show with Trevor Noah, Ronny Chieng: International Student was one of six comedy pilots which aired last year on ABC TV as part of a joint initiative with Screen Australia, Comedy Showroom, and becomes the first to be green lit to full series.

You can also catchup on the Pilot episode anytime on iview.

David Stratton's Stories of Australian Cinema

Stories of strangers, outsiders, people on the outer, have an enduring presence in Australian film.

It took They're a Weird Mob (1966), which dealt with the seismic shifts of immigration, to make audiences realise they were hungry for local films. Like Muriel in Muriel's Wedding (1994), who didn't feel she belonged until she understood "that her grotesque family and mocking peer group don't love her for who she really is".

Lindy Chamberlain, played by Meryl Streep in Evil Angels (1988), when she yelled "that dingo's got my baby", she was not believed. "Perhaps for Australians the mirror the film held up to our behaviour was too shameful and too raw to stomach," says David.

Landscape, particularly the outback, plays a big part in Australian cinema. It added to the nightmarish atmosphere in Wake in Fright, but was full of life and beauty in Walkabout (both 1971). It also features in Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert (1994).

Many times film has also shown mainstream Australia how the traditional owners of the land are treated as outsiders – and also how culture has helped them survive. Take Rachel Perkins' comedy road movie Bran Nue Dae (2009).

"Indigenous people in film and television have always just for many years been projected as these social problems ...but Aboriginal life isn't all that ... Actually, being Aboriginal is a fabulous thing to be because of the humour and the camaraderie. There is a great spirit within Aboriginal people."

Bonus Extra content from David Stratton's Stories of Australian Cinema will be staggered on iView from May 30th, along with a 'Celebration of Australian Film' featuring: Walkabout, They're a Weird Mob, My Brilliant Career, Newsfront, Careful He Might Hear You, Lantana, and Wake in Fright from June 6.

Short synopsis

Episode 2 celebrates the endurance of outsiders in Australian cinema: be it newcomers in They're a Weird Mob and Wake in Fright, or locals out of step with the mainstream in Evil Angels, Muriel's Wedding and 'Priscilla'.

Janet King

By uncovering the Northern Devils' salary cap breach, Janet (Marta Dusseldorp) discovers the bagman delivering cash to Nate Baldwin (Adam Demos) is the one who induced Clay Nelson (Don Hany) to kill himself. This will help the NCC blow the lid off the betting syndicate.

Nate's only hope to get off the manslaughter charge is to establish what substance Tyler Perati was taking, as it may have caused his death. But the only way to do this is to find the source.

Janet is willing to throw the NCC's resources behind the task but only if Nate reveals who the bagman is. But then Nate's agent, Maxine Reynolds (Susie Porter), vows she will find the drug herself in an effort to ensure he doesn't speak to the NCC.

With Nate's trial underway, Janet instructs Richard (Hamish Michael) to stall so she has more time to find the drug, and he tries every trick in the book to delay proceedings. But he's up against ex-DPP-colleague Ben McMahon (Todd Lasance), with Lina (Andrea Demetriades) as his associate, and they don't make it easy for him.

With the clock ticking, Janet is forced to hatch a new plan. Acting on the assumption Eddie Cooke (Kenneth Moraleda) was administering the drug, Janet recruits former Olympian-turned-coach Zoe DiCosta (Lauren Clair), to go undercover and cajole Eddie into providing her with the substance. The plan works and she beats Maxine to the drug.

But as it's being tested, Richard's only one way to prolong the trial is to put Nate on the stand, and Ben's cross-examination incites him to lose his temper - resulting in a guilty verdict. But the lab results are not what Janet was expecting...

Short synopsis

If they find the drug responsible for Tyler's death, Nate will get off his manslaughter charge, but Maxine wants him to keep his mouth shut about the betting syndicate. The trial is fast approaching. CAST: Marta Dusseldorp.

Meet The Mavericks: John Clarke and Alexei Sayle

In Series 3 of Meet The Mavericks we meet musicians, filmmakers, theatre makers, installation artists, rappers, writers, comedians, and all round troublemakers. Each episode brings together two creative talents for an inspiring conversation about how they see the world, what drives them, what enrages them, and how they channel that passion into their work.

Whether from the same field or completely different areas of art and culture, these mavericks quiz each other and compare notes about their creative lives, giving the audience a deeper insight into the minds of the people who challenge and shape our cultural landscape.

In a rare interview recorded last year, the late great satirist, comedian, writer and actor John Clarke sat down with pioneering British comedian turned author Alexei Sayle to discuss a range of issues including performing, writing and sheep.

You can also catch-up on Series 1 and 2 of Meet The Mavericks anytime on iview.

Stand and Deliver

Stand And Deliver is back for another hilarious series. Filmed live at the Famous Spiegeltent at the 2017 Melbourne International Comedy Festival, this stand-up comedy series for kids is hosted by the delightful and quick-witted Susie Youssef and features some of the best comedic acts from Australia and around the world.

During series two the performances include - the greatest day of Frank Woodley's life; some side splitting doggie-doo-doo tales from Dave Hughes; and an explosive popcorn fight with Aunty Donna, the wackiest, high energy sketch-comedy act around. We also lift the lid on the life of being a comedian with exclusive backstage interviews and see how they cook under pressure in Susie's 30 second Word Whizz Challenge.

Each episode also features superstar kids who tell funny jokes, make their best fart noises, and bring out their silliest faces, just for you! Stand And Deliver is jam packed full of fun, jokes, and all round silliness. You won't know what hit your funny bone.

Ep 1: Doggy doo-does and Loch Ness don'ts – Tuesday June 13 at 5.10pm

Host Susie Youssef, Australia's funniest dad Dave Hughes and drawing extraordinaire Danielle Walker bring some of the funniest and most bizarre animal stories to life in this hilarious kick off episode. Get ready for some huge belly laughs!

Ep 2: Grandma's Story Time – Wednesday June 14 at 5.10pm

Not many Grandmas are funny but this one will knock your nanna-socks off with her wicked sense of humour. Grandma, performed by Nikki Britton, returns to STAND AND DELIVER with a story for the old-ages and gee wilkers, it's a goodie!

Ep 3: Ethan and William Need No Introductions – Thursday June 15 at 5.10pm

Introducing 2015's funniest teenagers, Ethan Cavanagh & William McKenna! They join forces for a sketch show that knows what kids find funny. Ethan and William are the next big thing in the Australian comedy scene so quick, see what all the fuss is about.

Ep 4: Aunty Donna's Popcorn Fight – Friday June 16 at 5.10pm

Don't miss this whacky popcorn fuelled sketch show with Aunty Donna. It's brimming with entertaining goodies from fresh dance moves to a miraculous loose tightrope stunt. You'll also meet Mr Whoopie on his quest to find the silliest of them all.

Ep 5: My oh mime! – Saturday June 17 at 5.10pm

Sit back and be transported into the imaginary world of Trygve Wakenshaw. A physical comedian who takes mime to hilarious new heights. Then learn a thing or two from Sam Taunton who explains why you should never take a phone into the toilet.

Ask the Doctor: Pain

Ask the Doctor is an innovative, fun, and exploratory factual series that addresses the state of the nation's health, the latest in medical treatments and the future of healthcare as we know it.

Our trio of accomplished Aussie doctors, Dr. Shalin Naik, Dr. Renee Lim, and Dr. Sandro Demaio, travel the country to tackle our big health questions, bust medical myths and uncover the wonders of the human body. Here to answer Australians' health questions from how to treat the common cold to how much alcohol to drink, our medical experts deliver reliable, up-to-date medical advice to help people live healthy lives.

Each episode features a different theme ranging from diet, to pain, to sexual health to allergies. From the bedroom to the science laboratory, the dinner table to the operating table, we take a peek behind the medical curtain and explore both the most common and the most uncommon health concerns. We learn what the leading experts in their fields are discovering and witness firsthand the advances they're making in medical technology and treatments.

Join the doctors each Tuesday at 8pm, as they answer the health questions of the Australian public and deliver the latest in medical advice in a relatable, entertaining, and factual way.

This week we discover why pain is one of the most common reasons we visit the doctor and see how recent research is shaking up our understanding of how it works. Dr Shalin gets his head around the complex and fascinating process of what makes us feel pain. Dr Sandro is exposed to some discomfort as he learns how our brain and personality can change when we endure long-term pain. Dr Renee hits the road in country Victoria with a group of researchers armed with a bus full of visual tricks searching for alternative ways to treat pain. She meets chronic pain sufferer Dave who has benefited from some of these methods.

Sammy J's Democratic Party

When he was thirteen, Sammy J visited Canberra on a school excursion. There, in the Great Hall of Parliament, he had a vision of a weekly, bite-sized satirical comedy show in which he would star.

Twenty years later, that vision finally comes true. If you like your politics sharp, shiny, and with a healthy dose of craft activities, this is one party you don't want to miss.

Each episode will include a new Sammy J's Playground Politics sketch - the hit of the 2016 election campaign. There'll be lots of fun to be had turning opinions into facts, building a nuclear bomb out of paddle pop sticks, and having a picnic with Corey Bearnardi in the political wilderness.

But once the kids are in bed, it'll be time to get this party started ...

Sammy J's Democratic Party is the panacea we need to get us through another winter of Australian politics. From low level thugs enforcing federal laws in Constitutional Cops, to the excitement of the brand new game show Get Them to the Frontbench, there'll be something for everyone in this weekly smorgasbord. Unless that person is Malcolm Turnbull.

Along the way, Sammy J grapples with the problems faced by everyday Australians. How would he feel if a mosque was built on his street? Does he really want to know where his food comes from? And why won't Robert Menzies answer any of his questions?

So pour yourself a drink, invite your local MP around and get ready to party like it's 2017 - because democracy has never tasted sweeter.

Short synopsis

A brand new weekly bite-sized sketch show in which Sammy J plays, acts, and sings his lungs out for the enjoyment of taxpayers across the nation.

Unforgotten

Having identified the body in the cellar as Jimmy Sullivan the search for his murderer begins, Cassie (Nicola Walker) and Sunny investigate, starting with identifying the names featured in Jimmy's diary.

Cassie travels to Liverpool to see Maureen, Jimmy's mother to get a sense of who Jimmy was. She is met by a woman who is, in fact, relieved that she might finally find out what happened to her son - 39 years after he went missing.

'Frankie C' is identified as Sir Phillip Cross (Trevor Eve), the government's recently appointed entrepreneurial czar who denies ever having met Jimmy. 'Beth' is identified as Lizzie Wilton, living in Croydon and married to Ray, a second-generation Jamaican man, Lizzie also denies knowing Jimmy but is clearly a very different woman from who she was in the 70s before her marriage.

'Father Rob' is Robert Greaves who at the time of Jimmy's death was working in the local church to Arlingham House. And 'Mr. Slater' is Eric Slater, a wheelchair bound, retired bookkeeper living with his wife Claire in Cambridgeshire.

Line of Duty

In the pursuit of corruption, how far will they go to uncover the truth?

The hit UK police thriller is back for a third season, taking another probing look at modern policing and corruption within the force.

Daniel Mays (Common, Public Enemies) plays Sergeant Danny Waldron, the highly proficient leader of an Armed Response Unit whose unpredictable behaviour is becoming a threat to colleagues and suspects. When AC-12 are called in to investigate Danny's conduct, even they could find themselves in the firing line.

Mays joins returning cast Martin Compston (Sweet Sixteen) as DS Steve Arnott, Vicky McClure (This is England) as DC Kate Fleming and Adrian Dunbar (Ashes to Ashes) as Superintendent Ted Hastings.

The series opens with the fatal shooting of a criminal suspect by an armed response unit led by Sergeant Danny Waldron.

Danny and his team claim they acted in self-defence, but AC12, led by Supt Ted Hastings (Adrian Dunbar), gather evidence that suggests this was a deliberate killing. Under interview, Danny confidently rebuts all of AC12's accusations that he acted unlawfully, so DC Kate Fleming (Vicky McClure) is sent undercover into Danny's team to find out more.

Ingratiating herself to her new colleagues, Kate is quick to identify tensions and conflict between Danny and his team. But when Kate's own conduct comes under scrutiny, she finds herself side lined from an armed drugs raid that goes very badly wrong.

To accompany series 3, iview presents a special 15-minute recap episode Line Of Duty: The Story So Far which brings you up to date on series 1 and 2.

Father Brown

Lillith (Hara Yannas) walks through eerie Crows Wood with a feeling she's being followed. She runs and trips, crashing to the ground. As she turns to face her attacker a stone bears down on her head...

Months later at the Kembleford parish council meeting, Anglican Reverend Allsworthy (Oliver Gilbert) and Methodist Minister, Reverend Gillespie (John Sessions) report that the clergy have been tasked to form a committee to report about the moral threat of a coven in the village. Father Brown (Mark Williams) points out that witches aren't Satanists. However, when the village drunk spies on an initiation ceremony in the coven, he's terrified to see High Priest Eugene (Ken Bones) raise a sword to Dione's (Estella Daniels) breast. When Inspector Mallory (Jack Deam) finds blood there the next day it would appear that the witches are not quite as benevolent as they maintain...
