Ecler and Sennheiser new partnership invites you to a Superior Conferencing Experience

Barcelona, Spain – April 1, 2025 – Ecler, a leading innovator in professional audio and video solutions, today announced a partnership with Sennheiser, a global leader in audio technology, to deliver an exceptional conferencing experience combining the latest Ecler VEO-SWC45 presentation switcher with Sennheiser's TeamConnect (TC) Bar Solutions.

The VEO-SWC45 is a versatile 4K presentation switcher designed for modern meeting spaces. It offers easy connectivity and intuitive control, featuring dual HDMI outputs, wireless content sharing, Web GUI for quick or advanced configurations and integrated USB for simple connection to video conferencing systems. Keep in mind that VEO-SWC45 also offers truly unique features like: priority transmitter, video Mute & screensaver, configurable Aux buttons and User Mode.

Sennheiser's TC Bars are intelligent videobar collaboration devices with a 4K camera, crystal-clear audio and advanced speech intelligibility. Available in two models — the TC Bar S and TC Bar M — they accommodate different room sizes while ensuring clear communication. Their advanced audio processing ensures that everyone in the room is heard, even in challenging acoustic environments. Features like plug-and-play connectivity, integrated beamforming technology, high-quality video, full-range stereo speakers, and brand-agnostic integration, make them a perfect choice for an optimal conferencing experience.

By combining Ecler's VEO-SWC45 and Sennheiser TC Bars, organisations gain a streamlined conferencing solution with wireless screen sharing, automatic camera switching, premium audio and high-quality video with AI-powered enhancements. The integration also supports flexible expansion via Dante, versatile mounting options and enhanced control and security features. Together, the VEO-SWC45 and TC Bars create a collaborative conferencing solution that simplifies meetings and enhances communication.

"Ecler is really excited to team up with Sennheiser to create fantastic meeting experiences," said Victor Arranz, Ecler Video Brand Manager. "The VEO-SWC45 works fully integrated with solutions like the TC Bars, offering all sorts of ways to connect – wired and wireless – plus great 4K video and smart collaboration tools. It all just fits together with Sennheiser's top-notch audio, making meetings that are both lively and easy."

“We are excited to be partnering with Ecler to expand on the already powerful user experience of our TeamConnect Bars,” said Charlie Jones, Senior Partner Relations Manager, Business Communications, Sennheiser. “Wireless screen sharing combined with premium audio and high-quality video create a dynamic meeting experience. This is yet another example of our efforts to collaborate with valued partners in order to make learning and collaboration easier.”
