"Entrivo" by dormakaba – IoT services for automatic door operators

Ennepetal, 11 February 2020 – At the digitalBAU 2020 trade fair in Cologne from 11 to 13 February 2020, dormakaba will present Entrivo – its new digital IoT services for automatic door operators. The new connectivity solution makes it possible to show the operating and performance information of the connected doors from any location. The Entrivo IoT connector allows data to be retrieved via the cloud, transferred securely and stored. This makes it possible and much easier to access remote monitoring of large or decentralised door systems, for example.

Use Entrivo at any time to determine whether...

- a door is opened or closed,
- a fire alarm has been triggered,
- the door is defective
- and when a door requires maintenance.

In addition, Entrivo allows recording and retrieval of entrance and exit usage trends. All this can be done either by means of a dormakaba portal or direct API access, which enables integration into your own monitoring systems.

"For example, Entrivo allows property managers or companies with several buildings and locations to have an overview of all their entrances and exits at any time – regardless of where they are and what time it is," says Dr Anja Meyer-Jürgens, Vice President Digital Strategy & Transformation at dormakaba. "The available data help to optimise the efficiency, security and cost efficiency of their building portfolio – both in daily operation and for forward-looking planning."

Entrivo can currently be used with dormakaba's automatic door operators ED 100/250, ES200 and EL 301.
