Expand your expertise in RF wireless and digital audio

Wedemark, May 5, 2020 – With the live event sector still on lockdown, many engineers are making the best use of their time by investing in their further education. To support this, Sennheiser’s #Dontstoptheeducation initiative is presenting two exciting opportunities: a round table with Sennheiser RF wireless experts on May 7 and a webinar series on digital audio and digital wireless microphones, which will be launching on May 8.

Meet your expert

On May 7th at 16:30 CEST, RF wireless experts Jonas Naesby (Denmark), Vincent Tilgenkamp (Netherlands), and Volker Schmitt (Germany) will describe how to ensure trouble-free operation of your wireless microphone systems. Having supported many live audio productions globally, both in the music and the theatrical fields, the panellists bring a vast experience to the table. They are looking forward to answering your questions live and will be illustrating their answers with reference to real-world examples. Registrations are now open at https://zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_CO5-FTfxT1OT494rIIVUMQ

Digital audio and digital wireless microphones

Three sessions are available on May 8 at 8:30, 13:30 and 18:00 CEST to best facilitate access for all time zones. In this webinar, Volker Schmitt will explain the general concepts behind digital audio and digital wireless microphone transmission. He will talk about the advantages and challenges in digital wireless and compare them to analogue wireless transmission, explaining the differences and similarities. Over the two next weeks, Volker will present additional webinars that will build upon this first webinar. Registrations are now open at https://zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_Kfuns1YaS_mimF1r_RL1ng
