

Characterized by refined elegance, Edouard Vermeulen has envisioned a Couture collection for the summer season with essential lines, blending eloquent minimalism with precious ornaments.

After the festivities celebrating the 40th anniversary of the House – an exceptional fashion show in a historic venue in Paris and a retrospective exhibition in the prestigious Vanderborght Space in Brussels – the presentation of the new collection, showcased on busts, will take the form of a gallery-showroom at the Residence of the Embassy of Belgium in the Fashion Capital.

"The Couture Spring/Summer collection is very important to us as it marks the beginning of the season for ceremonies and weddings, a privileged period of elegance," says Edouard Vermeulen. To distinguish it, he has invited a subtle palette of bold colors, vibrant tones mixed with intense burgundies, in harmony with a natural range. Bright pink and bold orange are framed, like in a sophisticated garden, by moss green and lime.

This season features clean lines, adorned with feathers and beadwork for a Couture spirit, embroidered with glittering and feathered headdresses to match. The collections play with transparencies, embrace volumes to enhance the silhouette with flared dresses reminiscent of crinoline, where the fitted top contrasts curves that enhance femininity.

Thinking of all the guests at family and social occasions, the House simultaneously develops luxurious knitwear to downplay formality, with chiffon pants, fluid tops that offer a contemporary counterpoint to more structured pieces inspired by the craftsmanship of the tailoring world. The pieces, handmade in the House's workshops by the country's finest artisans, orchestrate the movement of gauze and tulle, the texture of faille (silk fabric with ribbed grains), and new technical materials made from recycled fibers. This aims to dress our sensitivity to eco-responsibility and push the delicacy of innovation into tradition.
