Forge of Empires Sets the Scene for Love with Valentine Quests

Hamburg, February 7, 2014. Valentine's Day might still be one week away, but in InnoGames' online game Forge of Empires, the time of love just started today. From now until February 16, players will have the chance to master two unique quest series: The troubled couple Jack and Rose need the player's support to survive several challenges and come to a happy end.

If players manage to reunite Jack and Rose, they will be rewarded by the Tree of Love, which contributes heavily to the happiness of cities' inhabitants. If players are already proud owners of such a valuable tree from last Valentine's Day, they receive an updated and bigger version of it. As a bonus, two new avatars await the successful cupids.

Forge of Empires is a browser-based strategy game, where players, tasked with leading their own city to prosperity, can research new technologies, build impressive historical buildings and enlarge their sphere of influence through military campaigns and skillful dealing. The game has recently been awarded the title of "Best Browser Game 2013" at the German Computer Game Award (Deutscher Computerspielpreis).

With about 110 million registered players, InnoGames is one of the world's leading developers and providers of online games. The Hamburg-based company has scored major successes with games such as Tribal Wars, The West and Grepolis.
