

Klößner Pentaplast, Starlinger and P&G join Petcore Europe

Petcore Europe, the Brussels based association representing the PET industry in Europe, has three new member companies. Klößner Pentaplast, Starlinger and Procter & Gamble have joined the association. "We are pleased to welcome these three new members," outlines Patrick Peuch, Executive Director of Petcore Europe. "Our association aims to align the whole PET value chain to work together and to speak with one voice. Gaining additional support from three global leaders like Klößner Pentaplast, Starlinger and P&G in their respective market sectors is therefore a real asset for Petcore Europe".

New Petcore Europe President elected

Petcore Europe, the Brussels based association representing the PET value chain in Europe, elected its new President Mark Kenrick from Lotte Chemical UK Ltd. Mark takes over from Roberto Bertaggia (Gruppo M&G), who chaired Petcore Europe since it was established two years ago, and the former Petcore for several years.

"I am delighted about my new role and determined that Petcore Europe continues to grow and to definitely be the voice of the European PET industry in Europe, especially in Brussels," outlined the new President. Mark is the CEO of Lotte Chemical UK Ltd, the UK manufacturer of PET. A mechanical engineer by background, he has experience in technical, operational, and general management roles mainly in the Polyester Industry in Europe, USA and Brazil.

Another Board member stepped down, Stephen Short (Indorama). He is replaced by Carlos Molina from CEPESA.

Petcore Europe Events in 2015

The first event that Petcore Europe organises this year is a Workshop on the Recycling of Rigid PET Thermoforms taking place on 11 March in Brussels. Its purpose is to find a way on how the industry can work together and find solutions for making PET thermoforms the best recyclable thermoformed packaging in its category. The event is on invitation only and free of charge.

Petcore Europe has invited what we believe are the most important companies and organisations in this field and we like to thank those who have already registered.

As every year, we will furthermore organise our Petcore Europe Conference (former PET Network Day). This annual event will take place in Brussels on 24 November 2015, one day before the big Plastics Recycling Show at Tour & Taxis in Brussels (25 - 26 November). Further details regarding the agenda and the organisation will be communicated in due course.
