

Update on operations due to disruptions Brussels Airport

From 31 March until 6 April included, Vueling continues to operate from Lille airport

Brussels, 31 March 2016. Vueling informs that, until Tuesday 6 April included, the airline will continue to operate all its Brussels' flights from the nearby Lille Lesquin Airport in France.

A total of 82 flights will operate from Lille in the coming week, for flight details please refer to vuelingnews.com. 18 flights have been cancelled up to now. The complete list of cancellations can also be found on vuelingnews.com and is regularly updated. Clients are kindly asked to refer to this list for the latest information. Vueling will continue to provide free of charge bus transport from Lille-Lesquin Airport to Brussels South Train Station for the passengers.

Clients who have booked a Vueling flight for this period with scheduled departure of Brussels Airport, can contact Vueling to change their flight free of charge for travel during the next two months or refund the ticket. Booking modifications can be made online on Vueling.com or by contacting the customer service helpline +34 93 122 00 55 from Belgium or +33 184 884 814 from France.

Vueling is in a continuous effort to reach out to the passengers who are affected by the disruptions at Brussels Airport, via different channels, such as SMS, e-mail directly to customers and constantly updates information on the website vuelingnews.com, on Twitter @vuelingclients and on Facebook. Vueling also keeps travel agents informed via e-mail.

Vueling liaises with the Belgian authorities and strictly follows their guidelines.
