

Orange Belgium makes convergent offer Love available in the last areas in Belgium, covering now 100% of all cabled homes

Orange Belgium announces today that as from April 26, 2018 it will make its convergent mobile, internet & TV offer Love also available for all cabled homes in the Brussels region, Wemmel and Drogenbos as well as the 'botte du Hainaut' area, covering now all cabled Belgian homes.

Orange Belgium progressively expands its convergence customer base as more and more Belgians find the way to Orange Love: internet + TV combined with an attractive mobile subscription that meets their needs. Since the launch in May 2016, Orange Belgium activated its convergent services on the Telenet and VOO footprint, now, 2 years later Orange Belgium can eventually propose its internet and TV services to all cabled Belgian homes by adding its convergent services on the SFR footprint as well. This footprint corresponds with the Brussels region and the 'botte du Hainaut' area*. Also Diegem, Wemmel and Drogenbos are covered now. That makes Orange Love now available for every cabled household in Belgium.

Michaël Trabbia, CEO of Orange Belgium, reacts: "By extending the reach of our mobile, internet and TV offer Love, we now make it possible for close to 250,000 additional households in the Brussels region, Diegem, Wemmel and Drogenbos and the 'botte du Hainaut' to opt for an alternative convergent offer that gives them great quality at the best price. With Orange Love, customers can save up to 20€ per month. Love combines an abundance of mobile data, over 70 TV channels and very high speed unlimited internet for a very fair price. And we will continue to enrich our Love package in functionalities and content as we invest where it counts for our customers. Over the past few years, we added premium content such as sports, thematic and kids channels to our main TV offer without having the customer pay extra. The growing number of Love customers confirms the attractiveness of our offer".
