

Waste Free Oceans

Waste Free Oceans is dedicated to reducing ocean plastics by collaborating with fishermen and business to collect & transform ocean plastic into new products. Driven by a deep connection to the powerful source of life that our oceans are, Waste Free Oceans does not believe in the blame game; we like to focus on what can be done instead.

Our Solutions

Collaborating with fishermen

Waste Free Oceans helps remove floating marine debris from our seas. Fishing boats outfitted with a special trawl collect between 2-8 tonnes of waste for cleaning and recycling. We work closely with fishermen, who can receive financial compensation for their efforts.

Collaborating with brand owners

With a strong network including plastic producers and recyclers, we actively collaborate with companies who want to produce products made from ocean litter. We help create innovative products that make optimal use of what is all around us - waste is a resource that can be used and sold.

Collaborating with passionate individuals

We have close ties to European politicians and serve as platform for stakeholders setting up debates and launching projects that raise awareness about the challenge of keeping our ocean clean.
