dormakaba wins German Innovation Award for the new automatic sliding door operator ES PROLINE

Ennepetal, 03rd December 2020 – The modern drive system for automatic sliding doors ES PROLINE from dormakaba was awarded as a particularly innovative product by the jury of the German Innovation Award even before its market launch.

The German Innovation Award honours products and solutions across all industries that stand out above all for their user-centricity and added value compared to previous solutions. With ES PROLINE, a drive system for automatic sliding doors was developed that perfectly combines the latest technology, energy efficiency and sustainability. At the same time, the drive meets the high design and functional requirements of modern buildings.

With the new drive system, almost all requirements in the area of sliding doors can be implemented. It does not matter whether it is a standard door, a door in escape and rescue routes or a telescopic sliding door. Even particularly heavy door leaves are no problem for the drive. During the development of the new drive, particular attention was paid to efficiency and sustainability.
