The Heights

The Heights is a groundbreaking serial about a community trying to protect its way of life, while under the constant threat of gentrification and the social stratification of its neighbourhood.

The “slice of life” drama explores the relationships, work lives and everyday challenges faced by six families living in the Arcadia social housing tower and the gentrifying inner-city district that surrounds it – Arcadia Heights. The series presents a medley of characters, cultures, classes and backgrounds from the ‘tower’ community, exploring their relationships, work lives and everyday challenges faced by its characters.

The impressive ensemble cast includes Marcus Graham (Secret City, Cleverman) and Shari Sebbens (The Sapphires, Thor: Ragnarok) and Roz Hammond (Muriel’s Wedding, The Dish, Shaun Micallef’s Mad As Hell and Thank God You’re Here).

In episode 1, The residents of Arcadia Towers are left reeling after an abandoned baby is discovered. Hazel is stunned when her estranged son Ryan returns from London. Leonie struggles with Mich’s desire to move in with his dad.

In episode 2, following Shannon being identified as the abandoned baby’s mother, Hazel and Ryan are desperate for answers. Sabine navigates her first day at Arcadia High. Sully invites Ash to dinner with Iris – with disastrous consequences.

The Magical Land of Oz

Across Australia, as the dawn rises the marsupials go to bed – except for the ones that don't – because there are exceptions to every rule in this land of ancient wonders, big skies and jewelled seas. Magic does not have rules. It has splendid dragons, saltwater monsters and dancing spiders.

MAGICAL LAND OF OZ offers a blue chip, continent wide series ranging from the land's highest snow peaks to the depths of the frigid and wild southern seas; from its last populations of wild numbats to its largest diorama of giant cuttlefish. It's a land of diverse beauty, that delights and surprises. The series both entertains and deepens our understanding of how the natural world is made up of not just unique species, but distinct individuals, whose lives are far from predictable.

Using the latest camera technology, we capture animal populations only recently discovered and behaviours not associated with species we thought we knew well. We meet animal characters so enigmatic, most Australians are unaware they share not just their island continent – but their own suburban backyards.

We reveal the challenges these animals must navigate in a land of extremes, and extreme human-induced change. To do this, we fill the screen with colour, dance, acrobatics, music, mating and murder – all performed by the animals which make Australia a truly magical land.

EPISODE TWO – LAND - Sunday 17 February at 7.40pm on ABC + iView

Australia is one of the most biodiverse of all landmasses – its landscapes spectacularly varied. The Australian 'bush' is a generic term but its landscape is anything but. In equal amounts it is lush and wet, arid and sharp, a perfumed expanse of dappled light. We move from the continent's snow-covered peaks to its ancient rainforests and tropical savannahs, discovering how it is that animals have learnt to thrive across the continent's harsh and beautiful extremes.

The Cry

We flashback to Joanna and Alistair's journey from Melbourne to Wilde Bay on the day they arrived in Australia. We discover that Noah died in the car. Alistair convinces Joanna they should fake the child's abduction. His death was an accident – Joanna accidentally gave Noah a dose of Vicodin rather than Baby Calpol, but Alistair believes she will be charged with manslaughter and he will lose all hope of gaining custody of his daughter.

The pressure of maintaining the lie begins to tear them apart. The police investigation closes in on them. Joanna wants to tell the truth but Alistair convinces her otherwise. The couple appear on television, recounting the tragic story of their missing child.

Joanna discovers that Alistair has destroyed Noah's bib, the only thing she had left of him. She begins to realise she has succumbed to Alistair's manipulation for too long. She calls Kirsty and admits she killed her son but Kirsty thinks she's just punishing herself.

Alistair is unravelling. The pressure of the police investigation and Joanna's increasingly uncontrollable behaviour has rattled him. He burns Noah's bib and goes to the police station to find out what they know. In the garden back at Elizabeth's Joanna demands to know where Noah is buried. Joanna tells Dr Wallace she was betrayed. We flash forward to the courtroom. Joanna is on the stand. She is being tried for her husband's murder.

Short synopsis

As the police investigation ramps up, the pressure of maintaining the lie begins to tear Joanna and Alistair apart.

Rosehaven

Emma is at home, sick, and feeling very sorry for herself. Grace and Daniel go to check on her, but Daniel keeps his distance – after all, he doesn't want to get sick.

Daniel has an open home that day, but with Emma out of action and not able to help, Barbara is concerned it'll be too much for Daniel alone. He insists all will be fine. The house is lovely and there is a great turnout for the open home. But when the owner returns they realise their rare fish is missing from the tank. Daniel promises to get it back.

Feeling alone and neglected, Emma shows up at the office with a 'friendship marriage' contract for Daniel. She has decided that he (or his kids) have to look after her until she's dead. Daniel isn't so sure.

Grace's medical research on the population of Rosehaven is coming along - she's hoping to find some results interesting enough to continue her study and stay in Rosehaven. But her results show there's nothing unique about the residents of Rosehaven. At all.

At a big town hall meeting, Grace announces the findings of her study to the residents, who are disappointed they're not unique, but still want answers. Who has the best bones? Who's got the highest vitamin D? They want to know. Grace gives in and embraces it – revealing the results via an impromptu award ceremony.

Finally Daniel acquiesces and signs a new version of the 'best friend' contract and gives it to Emma. But she doesn't need it anymore, she's off on a date with Farmer Dan...

Short synopsis

When Emma gets sick, it makes her question her life choices. Who will take care of her when she's old?

Catalyst

Catalyst brings together 15 ordinary Australians to take part in a revealing scientific experiment - to see if practicing mindfulness can help treat conditions like chronic pain, anxiety and stress that affect millions of us.

Across the world, mindfulness has become a multi billion dollar industry, but what is the truth about the claims being made for it? Has it become the latest well-being fad?

In the Truth About Mindfulness, a team of researchers from the University of Melbourne track the progress of the course participants and investigate whether mindfulness has any measurable effects on the body and brain.

The program also looks at the effectiveness of mindfulness through the eyes of our participants themselves. From the army veteran with chronic pain to the overworked architect on the verge of a nervous breakdown, can mindfulness have an impact on their quality of life, offering them an alternative to a lifetime of pills or therapy?

Get Krack!n

It's Get Krack!n's one-day-of-the-year thirty-minute 'International Day of People Living with a Disability' special and The Kates are determined to put disabled people front and centre. They claim to have done everything they possibly could to make their show more accessible; they've covered every square inch of their set in disability symbols to raise awareness about...disability symbols; they've hired an Auslan interpreter and installed a box of easy grip cutlery should anyone have an appetite for a pre-dawn meal.

They've also jam-packed the running order with a line-up of wonderful disabled talent. The Kates chat to a wellness kracksperter who suffers from a chronic illness; a woman who McLennan & McCartney have never met but nonetheless deign to be a worthy recipient of their inaugural 'Most Inspirink Person Award'; and a wheelchair racing Paralympian who is sure to make for a great interviewee should she be able to access the Get Krack!n set.

But when The Kates' make a series of ableist blunders their ally reputation is called into question online. The hosts are therefore left with no choice but to drag McCartney's new P.A., Matthew, onto the set to help reinstate their gold-star able-bodied ally reputation. However, The Kates' misguided attempts at inclusivity are quickly usurped by an announcement out of Parliament, where everyone is presented with news that deeply effects McCartney's P.A., Matthew almost as badly as McLennan is deeply affected by not having her own P.A.

Short synopsis

It's the one day of the year that Get Krack!n puts the focus on disability. But The Kates' ill-advised attempts at putting disabled people front and centre are gazumped by an announcement out of Parliament House.

Sick Of It

Karl Pilkington, star of ratings hits The Moaning of Life and An Idiot Abroad, is back in his own scripted comedy.

Karl Pilkington has always seen the world in a different way. Now he stars in a unique comedy that serves up a double helping of Karl Pilkington – with Karl playing himself as well as the grumpy voice inside his head who appears as a doppelgänger only he can see.

Sick of It follows Karl after he loses his long-term girlfriend and finds himself living with his elderly American Auntie and working as a taxi driver. As Karl struggles to move on, get his life in order, and start dating again, the voice inside his head pops up to annoy him when he's stressed, to criticise him when he messes up, and to dispense witty philosophy.

Who should Karl listen to? The irritable voice inside his head, his ballsy American Aunt Norma, or the other people he comes across? Perhaps he should just keep to himself. As Karl says, people are much less annoying when you don't know them.

Sick of It captures what it's like to be inside Karl's head and is packed with his trademark witticisms, philosophy, and observations about the world, with equal measures of daftness, physical comedy and pathos.

Short synopsis

Down-on-his-luck taxi driver Karl (Karl Pilkington) moves in with his auntie Norma after a break up. As he muddles through life, his closest friend is the uncensored voice in his head - a version of him who will not shut up.

Death In Paradise

DI Jack Mooney (Ardal O’hanlon) is settling into the sun-soaked idyll of Saint Marie and beginning to make the beach shack his home. But when his daughter Siobhan (Grace Stone) decides to leave for university, he finds himself living alone for the first time. Luckily, he has his team to support him as he faces some fiendishly taxing cases.

Jack’s laconic style belies a sharp mind and relentless determination. He’s a brilliant detective, but he’ll need all his instinctive genius to solve the mysterious murders ahead: a champion poker player apparently poisoned at the table in front of an astonished audience: a novelist murdered in a plot more surprising than anything he’s ever written: and a spiritual leader strangled at a time when all the suspects were each other’s alibis. Jack needs to solve these seemingly impossible mysteries if he’s to impress Commissioner Selwyn (Don Warrington) and make his mark on the island.

And it’s not just Jack who has challenges to face, as injury strikes DS Florence Cassel (Joséphine Jobert); JP (Tobi Bakare) confronts a face from his past; Commissioner Selwyn is forced to reopen a case that’s close to home; and Dwayne (Danny John-Jules) finds himself out of his depth – and in love.

In Episode Four, Jack finds himself embroiled in the mysterious world of faith healing when a woman is poisoned during a ceremony and all evidence points to the arrogant healer himself.

Short Synopsis

The Curious Curate Part 1

Carsely is buzzing with excitement at the arrival of hot new curate, Tristan Delon. Temporarily taking the place of Jez whilst he's away, the church pews are suddenly packed to the rafters with adoring fans. However, one villager who is definitely not joining the fan club is Sarah Bloxby, appalled at the way Tristan has turned her husband's beloved church into a pop concert.

Desperate to win her over, the ever charming Tristan invites Sarah to dinner at his lodgings that evening... but little does he know this would in fact be his last supper as Sarah is shocked to find him murdered the very next morning— and in her own vicarage!

As Sarah becomes a possible suspect, the gang rally around her and begin to work on narrowing down the list, until an unintentionally bad steer to the police from Agatha leads to a local villager becoming the next victim. Will Agatha's guilt be enough to make her drop investigating forever?

Short synopsis

There's a dishy new church curate in town, but all is not angelic in sweet happy Carsely as murder rips through the heart of the village. Will all of Agatha's friends be safe and could one have been driven to murder?
