Kitchen Cabinet

New Series

In a year of political drama, intrigue and instability, Kitchen Cabinet is back for its fifth season.

Once again veteran political journalist, Annabel Crabb seeks out the most fascinating people in Federal Parliament, and forces them to eat cake even if they really don't want cake.

From dragway tracks in regional Victoria, to remote parts of Kakadu and the wildest, most inhospitable place of all – Canberra – Annabel travels the country in search of a good meal and an insight into the life of the curious creature that is the Australian politician.

Join Scott Morrison as he cooks a Sri Lankan fish curry and opens up about his childhood acting career, his faith and reflections on his time as Immigration Minister. Motoring Enthusiast Party Senator Ricky Muir takes Annabel for a ride in two vehicles (one bumpy, one fast) and talks about his unexpected rise to political prominence. Senator Richard Di Natale, Leader of the Greens, invites Annabel to his off-the-grid farm and makes nearly every element of his meal from scratch, including the pizza oven. Gold medal Olympian Nova Peris takes Annabel to her family's country nestled in beautiful Kakadu, where they cook by a campfire, eat by a billabong teeming with crocodiles and discuss Senator Peris' life to date. And in a Kitchen Cabinet first, at a Chinese restaurant in Canberra deemed neutral territory, Annabel hosts a bi-partisan lunch with Liberal Minister Christopher Pyne and Labor MP Anthony Albanese.

Making Families Happy

Series Premiere

The hit ABC TV series Making Australia Happy and Making Couples Happy proved that science can make individuals and couples happier in just eight weeks. Now, in an Australian and world first, the 'Happiness' team are turning their attention to their greatest challenge yet: FAMILIES.

Over two months, three very different Australian families attempt to overcome longstanding barriers to happiness. They range from a blended family with five kids to a single mother with a thirteen-year-old daughter. Their problems are ones that all Australians will relate to. Poor communication, financial stress, lack of parenting skills, out of control teenagers – for the three families, it's their best hope for change after years of conflict. Making Families Happy builds on and develops many of the happiness skills explored in the previous two series.

The families are guided by two experts – clinical psychologist and relationship expert, John Aiken and leading family and child psychologist, Clare Rowe. Together, John and Clare combine cutting-edge scientific research with compelling, no-nonsense counselling to get to the root of the families' problems. Every fortnight, the families are evaluated and scored (using a scientifically validated system specifically developed for the series) to determine their happiness levels. The stakes are high!

Over the course of this three-part series, the families are pushed to their emotional limits. As their behaviours are challenged, do they succeed in their goal of becoming happier and forming deeper bonds? Working with families is a more complicated dynamic than couples or individuals, and John and Clare's success is not a foregone conclusion.

Short synopsis

Breaking The Silence

Breaking the Silence, a one hour COMPASS special, follows the journey of Australian Jew Manny Waks who was, until recently, the only survivor of child sexual abuse within Melbourne's Jewish community to speak publicly.

This is the dramatic sequel to the Walkley Award winning COMPASS special of 2014 Code of Silence. The sequel begins with Manny Waks as he gives evidence at the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sex Abuse, during which two ultra-Orthodox Jewish institutions are accused of covering-up and protecting perpetrators in the 1980s and 90s.

Over two explosive weeks inside Melbourne's County Court, viewers will witness, for the first time, those rabbis and officials accused of the cover-ups take the stand and be grilled. For the first time, it is also revealed that Manny was not the only member of the family who was abused.

The Royal Commission also hears from another abuse victim (known as 'AVB') who was abused in Melbourne and Sydney. AVB has maintained the Ultra-Orthodox religious faith and wants to stay inside the tight-knit ultra-Orthodox community. If he reveals himself, he fears he will suffer the same shunning as the Waks family. In the fallout of the Royal Commission some of Australia's most senior rabbis fall on their swords and resign.

After the hearings, Manny travels to the United States to confront one of the two men who he claims abused him. The film's climax follows Manny to Los Angeles, where he meets a convicted paedophile who was given a suspended sentence for abusing AVB in Sydney in the 1980s. It's a powerful moment between victim and abuser that delivers an unexpected conclusion.

Agatha Christie's Partners In Crime

During part one of three, Tommy (David Walliams) is asked by Major Carter to meet one of his agents, Harrison, at the opera to receive a message. A British scientist, who was working on a top-secret project has gone missing from a military base in Cromer and only Harrison knows who's behind it. Tuppence (Jessica Raine) must not know.

However, at the opera, before Harrison can finish speaking to Tommy, he falls down dead - apparently from a heart attack. Tuppence finds Tommy desperately trying to call Carter (who has gone underground) and demands to know what's happening. With the help of their scientist friend Albert, they discover that not only was Mr Harrison poisoned, but that he wasn't the right Harrison – there was a mix up with the tickets and the wrong Harrison is dead.

The next day, after locating the real Harrison, they receive a note from him asking to meet, and Tommy realises they have to get back on the case. But just as they are about to meet him, the blonde assassin runs him over with a truck. With his dying breath Harrison tries to tell them who the spy is, but doesn't get it out in time. Tommy and Tuppence disagree over whether his final word was 'N' or 'M'.

An angry Carter confirms that Harrison must have meant N, as N is a soviet agent, a former British citizen. He also reveals that Gilbert Worthing was working on a secret prototype for a nuclear bomb, and that N has kidnapped Gilbert and stolen the bomb – Carter suspects they are after the technology. However, for some reason, it appears that N is staying at the Sans Souci hotel in Cromer, but why? With the leak in his department, Carter can only trust Tommy for this mission to identify the mysterious N, find Gilbert, and the bomb. Tuppence must be kept in the dark.

Gay and Under Attack: Extreme Russia With Reggie Yates

Russia is the largest country on earth and home to nearly 150 million people. Vladimir Putin is well into his third term as president and with the West imposing tough sanctions - relations are now the frostiest since the cold war. The UK's, BBC Radio 1 host, Reggie Yates gets up close and personal with three very different communities in contemporary Russia. By living with them for a week, he'll explore what it's like for young people living here, 24 years after the fall of the Soviet Union.

Reggie Yates travels to Russia to find out what life is really like for young people, in what has been described as the hardest place in Europe to be gay. In this episode, Reggie travels to St Petersburg for 'Queerfest', a 10 day arts and culture get together for the LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender) community. Reggie spends time on both sides of the battle lines, with the Queerfest team as they face the daily fight to keep their festival open - and the homophobes who want to see it closed.

He also meets Dayra, a young lesbian viciously stabbed and left for dead by homophobes, Kiril an activist who is still fighting back and who shows Reggie how Putin's repressive laws make it almost impossible to protest, without risk of arrest. And Ivan and Nusrulla a young gay couple very much in love, but who are so scared of the consequences of coming out that they've made up a pretend girlfriend - and have a huge decision to make about their future.

On the other side, Reggie meets leaders of Orthodox pressure groups like God's Will, who would stone gays to death if the law allowed it and Vitali Milonov - the architect of the anti gay propaganda law. Reggie ends up in a sauna, being beaten with twigs by a naked man, in a bid to understand what it means to be, not just Russian in this post Soviet era, but what it means to be a Russian man.
