MONTE ROSA, ZERMATT FOR HISTORY BUFFS

Following the footsteps of the greatest alpinists, guests visiting Zermatt will not be able to miss the historic building in the centre of the village of Zermatt. Here in this hotel with 41 rooms and suites, the Briton Edward Whymper prepared and rested before becoming the first mountaineer to climb the Matterhorn in 1865. From the charming entrance to the staircase to the cozy salons – every corner has a story to tell. Today, the building still embodies the appeal of the alpine Belle Époque, but with all of today's modern conveniences.

HOTEL HIGHLIGHTS:

- Indulge in the cosy, historic ambiance, feel the early stage of alpinism and toast to it. Enjoy the finest cocktails with alpine tapas and delicious bar snacks in the Edward's Gastro Bar.
- For nostalgia fans, a cherry stone pillow heated in the old, tiled stove will keep you warm during the night, just like in Whymper's time.
