

Cloud Printing Alliance Welcomes oneclick as Newest Partner

With their partnership, oneclick and ThinPrint Cloud Services offer the perfect printing solution for any cloud-based workplace

BERLIN/DENVER, September 25, 2017 – oneclick AG, operator of the application delivery and streaming platform of the same name, is the newest member of the Cloud Printing Alliance founded by ThinPrint Cloud Services, Inc. Their cooperation aims to enable companies to print quickly, easily and efficiently from the cloud.

More and more organizations are relocating their infrastructure to the cloud and relying on application delivery and streaming, as offered by oneclick. The internationally-active provider hosts a platform to stream applications and data from any server location to a central workspace in a browser. Inevitably however, there comes a point for every company when documents from the cloud need to be printed to on-site printers.

Florian Bodner, CIO of oneclick says: "Printing remains an important part of everyday working life. Although computing power is increasingly coming from the cloud, the printer is not virtual and is still firmly located in the office. We knew straight away that when it comes to the complex area of printing, experts needed to be brought on board and ThinPrint Cloud Services offers exactly the services and solutions we need". These factors combined to make a clear decision in favor of joining the Cloud Printing Alliance which was founded by ThinPrint Cloud Services.

The Cloud Printing Alliance's goal is to bring printing to the cloud. As the alliance founding member, ThinPrint Cloud Services provides the leading cloud printing solution that fully migrates both print management and print job preparation to the cloud. This makes it possible to print from any device – without driver installation or special requirements for printers.

"We are pleased to have gained oneclick as an alliance partner, an important, innovative member of the booming application delivery and workspace management market." said Christoph Hammer, CEO of ThinPrint Cloud Services. "oneclick is an important and fitting addition to our ever-growing member network."
