Style expression: A good dose of nostalgia

Honest and harmonious, this look is all about creating a warm, decorative feeling that invites you in. Look to tactile textures, prints inspired by nature and an autumnal, earthy palette to create a mood that's heartwarming, wholesome, and makes you think of everything you love about the good ol' days.

The symphony of a home

'Tis the season for togetherness – a time when everything sparkles with magic. Gather in the living room, sink into the VISKAFORS sofa, get cosy with new TUVSÄV cushions, and be in-spired by the pictures in KNOPPÄNG frames.

This is where history meets creativity – where fairy tales have been told, novels have been devoured and songs have been composed. This is where the magic happens.

Let the sharing season begin.

Create a floral corner at home with new, unique HOVSTA framed prints, patterned TRÄGSPINNARE curtains and more.

"I can talk about colour for hours – it's one of my favourite topics. I think yellow is a really important colour right now, so it came quite strongly to me immediately that the tulips were going to be yellow."

— Hanna Wendelbo, designer

Meet the designer: Hanna Wendelbo

"I think something happens with a design when you work really slowly – you feel it in your hand and your body and your heart," says Hanna Wendelbo, the Swedish designer behind the new Arts and Crafts-inspired TUVSÄV cushion cover. "My hope is that the designs are going to be more timeless and will live longer if I make them more slowly in the process."

How would she describe the collection of six pieces? "Hopefully timeless, homely, and that you can feel the precious value in them," says Hanna Wendelbo. "Sometimes, you buy cushions for a season and then you put them away, but I hope that these are going to be a loved piece on your sofa or on your bed that will last for a long, long time."

Stylish, cosy, comfortable

One living room, one sofa, many different needs. Warm lighting, stylish accessories, and the new ESSEBODA sofa create an atmosphere that's ready for movie night, quality time with loved ones, or simply curling up with a good book. Did we mention the ESSEBODA footstool doubles as a sofa table, extra seat, or can even be added to turn the sofa into a chaise longue?

Cosiness is always just an arm's length away.

Style expression: Fresh, fun and folksy

When it comes to traditional Scandinavian design, there are a few things that come instantly to mind: joyful, earthy, and bright with a crafted, folksy sensibility. Such is the case when it comes to this look, which nods to the simpler, rustic lifestyle of the past but with a vitality that feels refreshing and modern.

The new dining room

The dining room is where friends and family come together: the heart of your home that's always cosy, always warm – and always ready for guests.

From well-planned get-togethers to impromptu gatherings, the new HEMNES cabinet in red offers stylish storage for all your dining and entertaining essentials, whatever they may be. And with the new PINNTORP dining set in deep red, designed by Friso Wiersma, you'll be ready to welcome one and all to take a comfy seat at the table.

"In my inspiration images by Carl Larsson, a famous Swedish painter, all the furniture was red and green. It's super Scandinavian to have super bold colours."
— Friso Wiersma, designer

Meet the designer: Friso Wiersma

"Traditional is not a style – it's a way of thinking, and it's very much my way of thinking," says Friso Wiersma, the designer behind the new PINNTORP table and chairs. "I want to build on the knowledge that we have created, and I want to honour the craft."

"When we talk about traditional as a style within IKEA, it's about creating an interior that is warm and cosy," he continues. "It is also about recognisability. If you asked a child to draw a chair, it would basically be PINNTORP. I love that."

And when it comes to the PINNTORP table, he says, "for me, a table is the most poetic piece of furniture there is. There's so much that happens at the table. I really hope that PINNTORP finds a place in a family home, where you can have laughter and tears."

How would Friso Wiersma describe PINNTORP in just three words? "Architectural, honest and Swedish," he says. "But also, it may be unhumble to say, but I want every product that I design to be an icon – a product that will last; that will still be good in 20 or 30 years."

A modern take on folklore

Don't have time to make your own arts and crafts? Recreate the look of a stylish, historic Scandinavian home. Printed instead of embroidered, block coloured instead of patchwork-sewn, pieces like the cheerful BRÖNDEN rug are modern – but destined to be treasured just as much as the traditional version.

It's an easy way to get a fun, folksy look without an embroidery needle.

Add interest and a crafty feel to your bedroom with the new SPARVICKER duvet cover and pillowcase by Eva Lundgreen: it's colourful, vibrant, and wonderfully folklore-inspired.

"I want my designs to be filled with positive energy – to have an air of happiness and playfulness. I want you to be inspired to play and to laugh – my animals should be like a little twinkle in your eye."
— Eva Lundgreen, designer

Meet the designer: Eva Lundgreen

"A lot of my designs are from memories of when I was small and I was at my grandmother's place up in Lapland, in the countryside in Sweden. I think everything comes from that house – it really had a big impact on me," recalls Eva Lundgreen, the designer behind this folk-inspired EKVECKLARE cushion.

"I could imagine the cushion in a family with kids, but I think this kind of playfulness is for everyone. I think it's important to have colours and some little quirky things that can make you smile."

Textiles dyed with the help of nature

This season is all about relaxing and going back to basics – and what better way to celebrate that life than with soft, cosy textiles dyed by nature?

Fringed VALLASÅN bath towels, the KRÅKRISMOTT duvet cover and pillowcase and the BLOMNÄSA 3-piece bedlinen set for cot all come in lovely shades of green and blue, created using dyes that come from an aloe vera-like plant called 'saw palmetto'.

New VALLASÅN bath towel 7,99/each Dark blue 005.313.77 Light green 905.313.30

These new textiles are all dyed with the help of nature. Soft, comfortable – and nicer to the planet.
