REPA becomes global Master Distributor for Sagi, extending its original parts offering for the very best after-sales service

Cesena, Italy - June 26, 2024

REPA, the leading European spare parts distributor for foodservice equipment, coffee, vending machines and household appliances, has gained Master Distributor status for original Sagi spare parts across the globe.

The renowned Italian brand, part of Angelo Po and owned by Marmon Foodservice Technologies, produces refrigeration equipment for sectors across hospitality. The global partnership means Sagi customers will be able to access some 2,700 original spare parts from REPA, supplied in super quick lead times and with world leading after-sales service.

The partnership effectively guarantees Sagi customers against long and costly breakdowns – refrigeration systems are vital for operators, ensuring food safety and guarding against food waste. REPA now holds the keys to a swift and satisfactory resolution, via the industry's largest inventory of its type – the REPA webshop – boasting quick search functionalities, including exploded drawings, allowing customers to search by brand, by appliance or original part number.

“We choose REPA to ensure availability and speed of service to all our customers,” says Paolo Mauri – Global Customer Care Manager for Sagi. “Making sure our customers can find the right parts at the right time is paramount to support our brand”.

Alexander Wiegand, REPA CEO adds: “We're proud to extend our partnership with one of Italy's best loved refrigeration brands, helping Sagi customers across the globe stay operational and profitable, even when the very worst happens. Sagi joins scores of renowned brands who place their trust in REPA's partner solution, a one-stop-shop of original parts, available 24/7.”
